The building has ample parking and one dock-high door, facilitating efficient loading and unloading of goods. Additionally, the property boasts TPO roofing, which offers durability and resistance to extreme weather conditions. The current lease is set to expire in December 2026, presenting an opportunity for owner-users or investors to lease up the property. The overall design and construction of the property make it an ideal location for a variety of industrial activities.

The property's location is one of its most significant advantages, situated along the BNSF rail line and in close proximity to I-25. This strategic location provides easy access to major transportation routes, facilitating the movement of goods and people. The property is also just 4.7 miles south of downtown Denver, making it an attractive option for businesses that need to be close to the city center. The property is well-positioned in an Enterprise Zone within the Upper South Central submarket, creating tax incentives for businesses.

In 2025, the submarket vacancy rate stood at 8.0 percent, in line with the national average. The recent rise in availability has put pressure on rents as the annual growth rate contracted by -2.8 percent. ### MARKET OVERVIEW

Marcus & Millichap

DENVER COLORADO

The Denver-Aurora-Lakewood metro is at the center of Colorado's Front Range, nestled at the convergence of the Great Plains and the majestic Rocky Mountains. The market consists of 10 counties: Broomfield, Arapahoe, Denver, Adams, Douglas, Jefferson, Clear Creek, Elbert, Gilpin and Park. Denver, which is both a county and a city, is the largest of each, with approximately 717,000 residents. The market also houses the state capitol. The eastern and northern reaches of the metro are expected to attract the most future development, as land in these areas is relatively flat and affordable. The Front Range is also served by the western hemisphere's largest airport by land area, the Denver International Airport. Denver's elevation of 5,280 feet above sea level earns it the nickname "Mile High City." The market's youthful and outdoorsy reputation has helped to pull regional offices into the area from established companies looking to entice talented employees.
